

"Where time stands still"

I came across Kala by accident whilst trying to locate a venue to spend the middle weekend of a 2 week business trip to Asia. Lured in by the glossy website, I was not disappointed by what I found when I arrived.

The friendliness and attentiveness was way beyond what would be considered normal in all but the elite venues in Britain, nothing is too much trouble for these people. The beauty and tranquility of Kala lends itself to couples seeking something different to the usual beach holiday.

Facilities, while at first glance may appear slightly basic, seem at the same time totally in keeping with the Kala experience. The Spa facilities look fantastic, my loss that I left it too late to sample them. Gourmets amongst you would thoroughly enjoy the dining here, and if situated on the main drag at Lamai, or Chawang beaches the restaurant would be bursting at the seams.
